

Lesson 5: Reflection

All Summer in a Day

By Ray Bradbury

This story was originally published in 1954. Although this story fits into the genre of science fiction, and technology and science has changed dramatically in the years since it was published, the story focuses in on the relationships between the children.

Write a reflection (a paragraph or two) using the following questions as prompts. You may include any other ideas or wonders you may have.

What do you think is the message of "All Summer in a Day"?
