BLOCK OR NOT? (MONOPRINTING AND STAMPING)

Drawing, Printmaking

Students will use a monoprint stamp as a jumping off point for developing imagination and stimulating creativity.

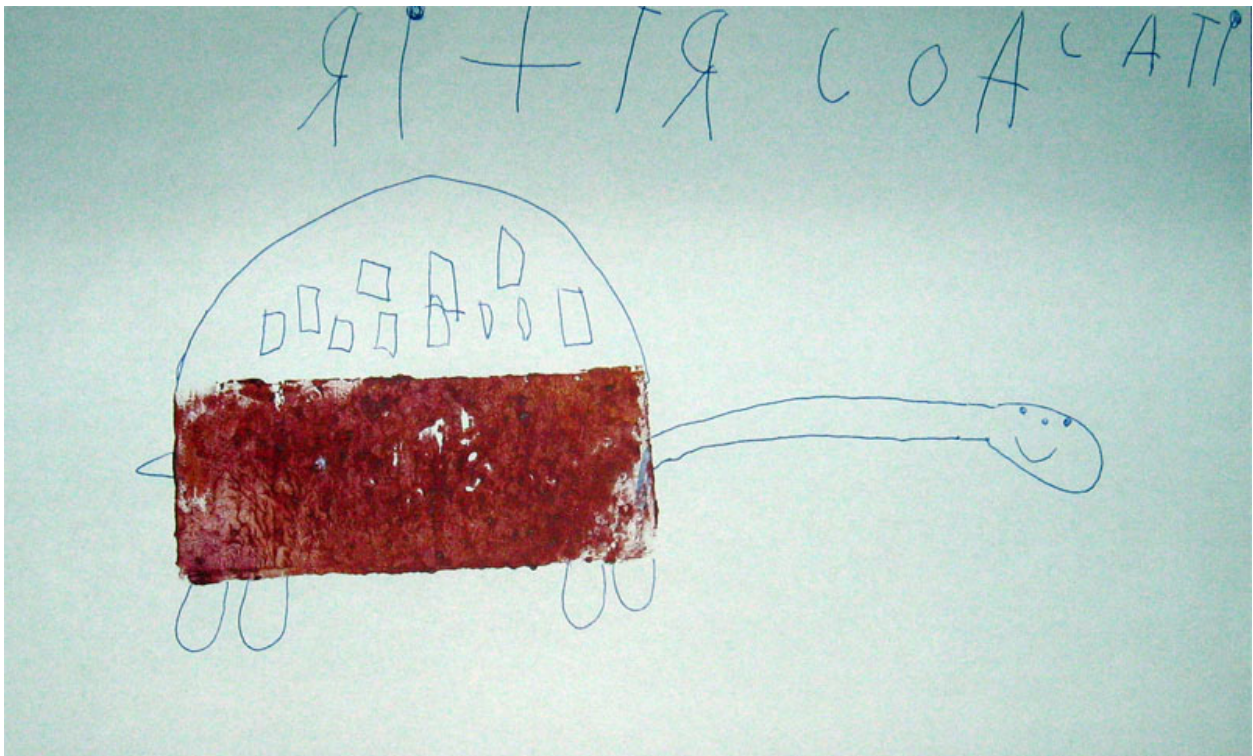

WHAT YOU NEED:

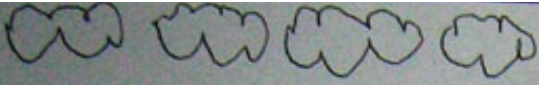

- paper
- pencils
- a piece of polystyrene (rectangular shape)

- paint (only one color)
- paintbrush

WHAT YOU DO:

1. Use a paint brush to cover one side of the polystyrene piece with paint.
2. Stamp it onto paper.
3. Let dry.
4. Give each child a pencil.
5. Ask them use their imagination and create a composition trying to integrate the printed shape.
